

WebSpy LTD Announces JANTEKNOLOGY PTY LTD AS New Distribution Partner for Australia and New Zealand

WebSpy is Looking Forward to Strong Returns Using Janteknology's Innovative E-Distribution Model

WebSpy Ltd is pleased to announce the appointment of Janteknology Pty Ltd as the company's exclusive distributor for the WebSpy product range in Australia and New Zealand.

Janteknology is a niche distributor operating from Sydney's Baulkham Hills servicing the Australian and New Zealand markets with a range of security and communications software products for the small to medium sized corporate market.

This focus is an excellent match for the WebSpy product range, whose core strength lies in its ability to provide small to medium sized corporations with a cost effective, easy to implement solution for the problems associated with Internet use in the workplace.

The electronic distribution model offered by Janteknology is innovative in that the group is the first Australian distributor to offer only electronic software delivery to its resellers. This approach has been a benefit to the distributor because of the immediacy of product delivery and the ability to considerably lower the cost of sales.

Janteknology currently has over 600 distributors servicing a wide cross section of the market throughout Australia and New Zealand and are planning to increase this number over the coming months.

The range of security and communications software presently supplied by Janteknology include; Wingate, MDaemon, MailScan, Conceal Firewall, eEye and PC Guardian. WebSpy's addition to this product line will further expanded the scope of products offered and the impending release of WebSpy Analyzer for Wingate Users will enable quick sales through vertical marketing opportunities with existing clients.

Jack Andrys, WebSpy Ltd's CEO, is confident about the future of this new partnership, "By appointing Janteknology as our exclusive distribution partner in Australia and New Zealand, we take advantage of their experience and skill in delivering products to this market. Through the use of electronic software delivery, Janteknology can assure WebSpy end users and resellers of timely, cost effective product delivery to back up the sales and marketing expertise that will ensure wide exposure and acceptance for the WebSpy brand in Australia."

Glenn Miller, Managing Director of Janteknology Distribution said of the agreement, "Our partnership with WebSpy is an exciting development for us, opening a strategic market segment while complementing our existing range of security products. The small to medium enterprise market is largely ignored by much of WebSpy's competition" Mr. Miller said. "We believe the WebSpy products puts us in a unique position to capture market share in this sector very quickly. Also the opportunity to be part of an Australian success story is an added bonus"
